BIG DELEGATION TO HEAR CLARK

MEETING OF DEMOCRATS SATURDAY ASSURES LARGE CROWD.

SPECIAL TRAIN AND BANDS, PROBABLE

An extra to be Run if 150 Get Tickets Committee Appointed to Urge Attendance.

A big delegation of Nodaway Democrats is going to St. Joseph October 1 to hear Champ Clark, speaker of the House, and to attend the great rally at which both of the United States senators, almost all of the congressmen from Missouri, and other leaders of the party, will speak.

The Nodaway delegation is going to take several bands with it. The Maryville Democrats are going to get a special train if possible to bring them home that night after the meeting. These things were definitely decided upon at the meeting of the Democrats of Nodaway county at the court house late Saturday afternoon. A committee composed of A. S. Robey ,Judge W. M. Blackford, Fred Yeomans, D. R. Baker and J. K. Sawyers was selected to see the Democrats of Maryville and of Polk township and urge them to attend.

A special train will be run from St. Joseph after the meeting that night if enough people can be secured to come back then. It will take about 150 people to insure a special and the committee for Polk township will work toward that end.

John Gex of Hughes township, reported that there will be a large number from that township who will attend the meeting and that probably the Graham band will be taken along.

L. B. Campbell of Barnard, also reported that many Democrats from Barnard and Grant township will attend. A number of others stated that indications are that there will be many from their part of the county.

The Fourth Regiment band will be taken with the Maryville delegation. It is suggested that the Democrats on the west side of the county could attend the meeting by going to St. Joseph on the regular trains on that branch and then return to Maryville that night on the special train.

John M. Dawson, chairman of the county committee, presided at the meeting.

The Democratic state committee will also meet at the St. Joseph rally, it is thought. The rally will be the first one to be held in the state by the Democrats and will be the opening of the campaign for next year.

To Eastern Schools.

N. Sisson and his daughter, Miss Donna Sisson and Miss May Corwin will leave tonight for New York City, where the two young women will spend the coming year at school. Miss Corwin, who will stop en route for a visit at Cincinnati, Ohio, will spend the year studying music and taking graduate work at Columbia university. Miss Sisson will enter Pratt Institute at Brooklyn for her second years' work in art. Mr. Sisson will spend a few weeks visiting various places of interest, the principal one of which will be the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Washington, D. C., which meets September 27 to October 2.

Other members of the church will probably attend the conference as will also Rev. Gilbert S. Cox and Superintendent W. B. Christy.

Mine Owner Keeps Promise to Mother Jones to Visit His Mines.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 20.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., arrived here today for the purpose of spending several weeks in an inspection of his mining property. The visit is the result of a promise made by the young millionaire to Mother Jones more than a year ago to come and see the conditions in his mines with his own eyes.

The promise was made to the noted labor leader at the hearing before the Federal Industrial Relations Commission in New York.

FAMOUS AMERICAN SOPRANO TO OPEN LYCEUM, OCTOBER 26.

Alice Nielsen, Prima Donna Soprano of the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Companies.

"HEARING AMERICA FIRST."

Alice Nielsen, Who Opens Lyceum on October 26, a Foremost American Star.

"Hearing America First" might be given as the guiding spirit of the lyceum committee in securing Miss Alice Nielsen, the famous prima donna of the Boston and Metropolitan Opera Companies, in preference to artists of another nationality.

Miss Nielsen is rated among vocalists as one of the foremost of American opera stars and it is not often that a city as small as Maryville is able to get an engagement. Her price of $600 which the Maryville lyceum contracted for is sufficient proof of her excellence. Local music lovers are anticipating a rare treat and are planning to entertain friends from Northwest Missouri and southwest Iowa.

NEW CONSTITUTION

GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO CONSIDER IT AT NEXT SESSION.

OLD ONE IS OUTGROWN

During 40 Years Twenty-Two Changes Have Been Made in the Original Constitution.

Advocates of a new constitution for Missouri, conspicuous among whom are Speaker Champ Clark and Chairman John M. Atkinson of the Missouri public service commission, think it would be unwise to submit the question at the next general election through the initiative. In fact, they point out that such a procedure would not, if the proposition carried at the polls, secure a new and modern instrument for the government of the state very much in advance of legislative enactment through the regular channel at the 1917 session of the general assembly.

They say it would be far better to have the proposition put up to the people by act of the general assembly. There is no telling what may or may not be submitted in the way of amendments to the present constitution, under the initiative, at the general election next year. There may be several meritorious propositions and some that are the reverse, and the good ones will suffer merely from association with others that are not good.

Missouri has had four constitutional conventions since she entered into statehood. The 1875 convention drafted the present constitution. It met in Jefferson City, May 5, 1875. By proclamation of the governor the present constitution became the organic law of the state, November 30, 1875.

During the forty years of its existence there have been seventy-one amendments submitted, of which twenty-two were adopted. The first one adopted was in 1884, when the people voted affirmatively for the establishment of the Kansas City court of appeals.

Some of the propositions rejected by the voters of Missouri were state-wide prohibition, women suffrage, removal to Sedalia and giving grand juries the right to open ballot boxes in election fraud investigations.

The last general assembly submitted but one proposition to be voted upon at the election in 1916. That was an amendment under which it would have been possible for the state to pension the deserving blind, but it was dragged down because of the unpopularity of some of the others.

MEN'S BANQUET WEDNESDAY

Special Department of Commercial Club to Meet at Elks Club.

A "square meal," it is called by Henry Wilson, who has it in charge, but the tickets of the Commercial Club call it a banquet. At any rate, the members of a special department of that body will meet at 7 o'clock at the Elks Club next Wednesday night, September 22, for the purpose of eating.

A business meeting will follow the good things. The banquet and meeting is open only to members of the special department. Lawrence Schumacher and Howard McCaffrey are the committee in charge of all the arrangements.

FIGHT IN AUDITOR'S OFFICE.

Morris Gordon and Press Correspondent in Blows Over Story Sent Out.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Sept. 20.—Asa Hudson state capitol correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Morris Gordon, son of the auditor of the state of Missouri, staged a pugilistic match in the auditor's office at noon today.

Several blows were struck before the men were separated by a clerk n the office. The trouble is believed to have arisen because Hudson sent a story to his paper stating that John P. Gordon and his son were taking a trip to California at the state's expense.

BIBLE SCHOOL RALLY

AT THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUNDAY MORNING.

TO TAKE MOVING PICTURES

Parade Will Be Given Before the Bible School Around the City.—Slogan Is "999 Plus You."

The First Christian church Bible school will have a rally next Sunday morning and the slogan chosen is "999 plus you," Fred P. Robinson is superintendent of the Bible school and the committee in charge of the rally is Misses Fannie Hope and Laura Hawkins and Edward Gray.

Before the Bible school, a parade will be given around the business section of the city and moving pictures will be taken of the parade, which are to be shown at the Empire theatre at a later date by the church. Automobiles will also be at five different stations at the outer edges of the city to convey people to the Bible school.

The Bible school is expected to break all records at this rally and the campaign will be kept up.

The program for the rally will be announced later this week.

35 AUTOS AT AUCTION.

Five Maxwells a Day at Buyer's Price at State Fair.

For the first time in the history of the automobile industry in Missouri, if not in the United States, Maxwell automobiles, 1916 model 25, touring car, will be sold at auction at Missouri's state fair during the seven full days the fair is in progress.

R. F. Boehme, proprietor of Le Grande garage, is staging the auction, which will be conducted in a tent 100 x 100 feet, to be erected in the fence section just west of the Poultry building.

An admission charge of 50 cents will be made to this tent, which will comfortably hold 2,000 people. A competent and reputable auctioneer will be in charge, and every transaction connected with the auction is guaranteed by the Maxwell Motor Co., of Detroit, Mich.

The service guarantee of every retailer of Maxwells goes with each of the thirty-five cars to be sold at auction. If a man at St. Joseph bids off a car at $50, the Maxwell dealer at St. Joseph is under contract to give the purchaser full Maxwell service. This is guaranteed by the Maxwell company.

The thirty-five cars that are to be sold at auction at the buyer's own price are now on their way from Detroit and will be stored in the fair grounds before the end of ten days.

No care will be premitted to sell for more than retail price. In the event it is thus run up another car will be immediately put up to be sold. Five auctions per day will be conducted. No car will be sold twice and there will be no by-bidding. The tent will be emptied five times a day, or for each auction.

The possibility of getting a car from $1 to $690, the retail price in Sedalia, will, no doubt, prove alluring to those wishing to purchase a car to go home from the state fair in.

Cars will be sold for cash or its equivalent in a certified check or draft. Out of town buyers can make a deposit to hold the car for ten days. There is no raffle or chance about the plan, which has been subjected to the most close legal scrutiny. —Sedalia Democrat, Sept. 10, 1915.

Aerial Defense Guns Were Powerless and Fifty Were Killed, Travelers Say.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Sept. 20.—Passengers from London today on the first steamers to arrive since the Zeppelin raids upon that city assert that the British censors have withheld much of the truth concerning the damage done.

They say that the loss of life and the property destroyed was much greater than the press dispatches would indicate. At least fifty persons were killed in their opinion. The bombs were dropped upon the heart of the great city.

The aircraft and aerial guns were powerless against the airships and were not able to repell the attacks in any way, according to the travelers.

WEST'S "PLATTSBURG" OPENS

Famous Citizen "Rookies" Enter Camp at Fort Sheridan for Military Training.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Fort Sheridan, Sept. 20.—With several hundred business men, lawyers, doctors and others from civil life as "rookies" an auspicious start was made here today on the training camp for the middle west, which is modelled after the successful experiment at Plattsburg, N. Y.

Many notable men from Chicago are enrolled, including Mayor Thompson, U. S. Sub-treasurer Irving Shuman, state representative George U. Lipschuich, J. M. Dickinson, son of the former secretary of war, and Dr. J. W. Miller of Cincinnati and Mayor Harry P. Pearsons of Evanston are all expected to "do their bit," as the British say.

The commander of the camp, Col. William J. Nicholson, U. S. A., after looking over the raw material and observing the eagerness with which the "hay-foot-straw-foot" novitiates took up their work, expressed himself as well pleased with the prospects of the camp.

Every man brought to the camp one pair of marching shoes, one suit of cotton olive drab uniform, one extra pair of breeches, one campaign hat, two cotton or wool olive drab colored shirts, one pair of leggings, medium weight socks and fall underwear. The government furnished the rest.

Each man deposited $25 on arrival in camp to cover substance and camp expenses. Simple food is furnished, for which the would-be soldiers would pay 50 cents a day. The total necessary cost per man will be about $40, including uniform and incidentals.

The regiment will be put through a hard course of sprouts, beginning with the most elementary routine of the soldier and ending up with practice "hikes" and sham battles.

ARCHIBALD NOT ARRESTED

Bearer of Letters Protests Innocence Again and Calls Prosecution Unjust.—Arrives on Rotterdam.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Sept. 20.—James E. Archibald, from whom British secret service men took letters which caused the United States to ask for the recall of the Austrian Ambassabor, Dr. Dumba, arrived in this city today on the steamer Rotterdam. He was not arrested but went at once to the office of his lawyer.

Mr. Archibald reiterrated his statements, made at the time of the discovery of the documents, that he was carrying the papers unwittingly and that he was absolutely innocent of any wrong. He declared that the prosecution which is contemplated by the federal officials would be most unjust.

The defendants are so confident that the government failed to make a case that they will introduce defensive evidence.

RUSSIANS ADMIT FALL OF VILNA

SLAV FORCES HAVE TAKEN STAND ON HEIGHTS TO SOUTHEAST.

RETREAT ORDERED TO SAVE THE CITY

Fortress Was Considered Worthless to Russians After Railway to Plensk Was Cut.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Petrograd, Sept. 20.—The Russian war office admitted this morning that Vilna has been occupied by the German forces. It was announced that the Russian forces withdrew to prevent the destruction of the city.

The fortress was considered worthless to the Russian from a military point of view after the Teutonic army had cut the railway line to Plensk, according to Slav strategists. That feeling strengthened the Russian desire to retire in good order and thus save the city from bombardment.

The retreating forces have taken a stand on the heights to the southeast of Vilna where they are resisting obstinately. The Germans are better equipped and much stronger but the Russians have been able to check the advance of the left wing.

Severe fighting is ranging west of Dvinsk. The heaviest artillery of the German forces is being used.

BERLIN CELEBRATES AGAIN

Fall of Vilna Causes Great Rejoicing and Hope in German Capital.

Berlin Sept. 20.—The whole city of Berlin was thrown into another semi-holiday of rejoicing by the announcement that Vilna had fallen. Many extra flags were unfurled, speeches were made, and all the gala features that have followed other victories were in evidence.

The feeling of joy was heightened by the confidence of the people that the third line of the Russian defense was broken and that the great battle now being fought east of Vilna would result in the capture of the Slav army of a quarter of a million of men.

The fall of Dvinsk around which the fighting now centers, is expected within a few days.

BUY IT IN MARYVILLE

In this shield the Democrat-Forum introduces to you an old suggestion in a new form. "Buy it in Maryville." This slogan is one that should be generally adopted and practiced by all. It embodies the spirit of a good town and a hearty co-operation between merchant and customer that makes for the good of both. It is a pledge of success for the local merchant and a pledge of value received and square dealing for those who buy in Maryville.

It was inevitable, of course, that Vilia and Vilna would get mixed in headlines and press reports.

A GREAT man quotes bravely, and will not draw on his invention when his memory serves him with a word as good.—Emerson.

An original article by Mrs. William J. Bryan will be among the interesting features to be found in the ladies' edition of the Democrat-Forum next Saturday.

Among the multitude of attempts at wit upon the name of Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, we have failed to notice one observing that the Austrian Ambassador is now a Dun-baa.

Prominent Republicans are beginning to observe that nothing can cause defeat for their party next year except the war. Those "excepts" are pillows upon which the prophets hope to light when the returns come in.

The ladies' edition of the Democrat-Forum is coming like a whirlwind. It will be a daisy. If you are not already on our subscription list, get on at once and be in line for the woman's edition—not the big woman's edition but the woman's big edition.

ABOUT RUSSIAN FEDERALISM.

From the Chicago Journal:

Literature continues to come to this desk telling how wide are the differences between the "Ukrainians," or people of southwestern Russia, and those subjects of the white czar whose social center is Moscow or Novgorod.

The first temptation of a busy Yankee is to toss all such pamphlets aside, the more so as they average very vehement in character, but that would be an error. True, to American students it seems as idle to balance the respective merits of Moscow and Kiev as to speculate whether the world would not have been better had Toulouse, instead of Paris, served as the rallying point of France. But the mere fact that such arguments can arise is a fact of large importance.

It shows that The Journal's remark about the growth of federalism is Russia was not premature. That empire is not the highly unified thing which most outside observers imagine. The Slav, as this paper has said some scores of times, is not a uniform type—a robber type at that, seeking what he may devour. He is rather good-humored rather dreamy, somewhat backward individual, whose native tendency is to insist on local independence, and who forms empires only when he is kicked into doing so by hostile nations or led by princes trained in foreign ideas.

Some day, perhaps not so very distant, there will be a federal empire of Russia. After that, there may come a federal republic. In either case, local self-government is bound to be one of the dominating ideas of Slavdom—and the pamphlets which rage so furiously at the czar prove it.

Dazzling Ink.

Here is an actual instance of Russian gallantry. A celebrated opera singer, who once "starred" in Paris received from a Muscovite prince a handsome brooch set with diamonds. But not wishing to accept a gift, the motive of which might be misconstrued, she returned it with warm thanks. The next day she received a letter from the prince approving highly of her decision. But the writing in this letter had a singularly glistening appearance, and it afterward transpired that the magnate had reduced the returned diamonds to fine powder, with which he had besprinkled the wet ink, and had thus insured the acceptance of his homage.

A Magnificent Vessel.

In 268 B. C. Archimedes devised a marvelous ship for Hiero of Syracuse. Her three lofty masts had been brought from Britain. Luxuriously fitted sleeping apartments abounded, and one of her banqueting halls was paved with agate and costly Sicilian stone. Other floors were cunningly inlaid with scenes from the "Iliad." Stables for many horses, ponds stocked with live fish, gardens watered by artificial rivulets and hot baths were provided for use or amusement.—Chambers' Journal.

Westminster Abbey.

The full legal title of Westminster abbey is "the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster." Very few people have heard the famous burial place so designated. A collegiate church, as distinguished from a parish church, is one that is administered by a "college" of priests instead of an individual rector or vicar.—Westminster Gazette.

He Weakened.

"Did you speak to father about me, Arthur?"

"Yes; I did, dear, and he agreed with me heartily."

"Then he said I might marry you?"

"Why—er—no. I didn't quite get to the point of asking him that. I just said you were a fine girl."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

SUCCESS.

Success means hard work. The road to success is not to be run upon by seven league boots. Step by step, little by little, bit by bit, that is the way to wealth, that is the way to wisdom, that is the way to glory.—Charles Buxton.

From a well informed source it is learned that military men estimate there are 40,000 German machine guns in position on the Western front alone. This means more than one machine gun for every 40 men, putting the Germans' strength at 1,500,000 or one for every twenty-five yards of front.

How to Prevent Hog Cholera.

If hog cholera is suspected remove all well hogs from the lots they are occupying to clean grounds is the recommendation of the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. On the appearance of any sickness in any of these hogs, remove the sick hog promptly from the well ones, placing them in a small pen where they can be watched and their excrement disinfected. Use an abundance of air slacked lime about the premises. Scrape all litter off the old hog lots and thoroughly "lime them."

Horticultural Advice

BEST LOCATION FOR GRAPES

Plant Two-Year-Old Vines on Southern, Eastern or Southeastern Slope in Straight Rows.

Any good farm land will grow grapes. Plant on a gentle eastern, southern or southeastern slope. If the land is stiff clay it needs drainage. Plant two-year-old vines.

Buy direct from a reliable nursery man—not of agents. Set the vines in straight rows eight feet apart—the vines eight feet apart in the row, says a writer in Baltimore American. Have the ground deeply plowed and well pulverized, plow out the rows, going twice in each row with the plow. This will save hand labor. Set the vines the same depth they grew in the nursery, spread out the roots, cover with good earth, press the earth, as it is put in, with the foot. After all the earth is in, spread one forkful of long manure, rotted leaves or straw around each vine. This mulch will keep the ground cool and moist.

Drive down a stout stake close to each vine and train to one cane. Tie the cane as it advances in growth to the stake. When four feet in height, nip off the top bud. Cultivate the ground between the rows—the ground must be mellow and free from weeds and grass.

Never let the ground crust over and become hard and dry, as this stops all growth. The best varieties for family use are Concord, Niagara and Delaware. For warm, sandy and gravelly soils, add a few vines of Catawba. It is one of the best grapes for this class of soils—it requires high culture.

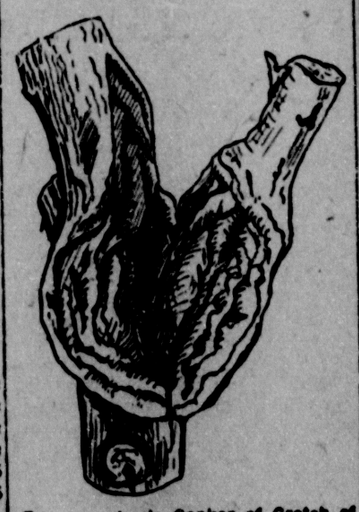
SPRAYS FOR APPLE ORCHARD

Ideal Combination for Controlling Various Pests Has Not Yet Been Put on Market.

(By W. J. MORSE.)

In spite of the fact that a large amount of work has been done both in this and in other countries, in studying the effects of different insecticides and fungicides upon the trees themselves and their efficiency in controlling the various insect and fungous pests, the ideal spray or combination of sprays for use on apple orchards has not yet been discovered. It is true that with the introduction of lime-sulphur some of the previous difficulties have been eliminated, but at the same time there are others of equal importance which have arisen or which have not been overcome. This is particularly the case under the climatic conditions which exist in the apple growing regions of the northeastern portion of the United States, where apple scab frequently appears in its most virulent form.

While it is granted that lime-sulphur, as ordinarily used, has been found to be less likely to produce spray injury, many orchardists maintain that in practical work it is less efficient with them than bordeaux mixture in controlling apple scab. In fact, a prominent apple grower recently told the writer that even with the most careful and thorough spraying with lime-sulphur their fruit the past season was badly attacked by scab and that some orchardists were seriously considering going back to bordeaux mixture this year. On the other hand, it has been the writer's experience that with varieties susceptible to spray injury lime-sulphur is, on the whole, by far the most satisfactory material.



European Apple Canker of Crotch of Tree.

The question of the proper fungicide to use is by no means the only important matter involved in efficient orchard spraying. Insecticides are necessary and it is both necessary and convenient to use them in combination with fungicides. While a fairly settled policy has been reached as to the proper time to apply the various sprays or combinations of sprays to secure the greatest efficiency there is still insufficient data with regard to many points connected with apple culture.

Singular Statues.

The bust of Mr. Chamberlain, with an eyeglass, at the Guildhall reminds one of the statue of Francois Coppee in Paris, with a marble cigarette. There are two statues in Great Britain which deserve including in the catalogue of sculptured curiosities. One stands in the central square of Glasgow and represents the figure of James Oswald, M. P., holding his top hat upside down by the brim, as if he were offering to catch pennies. The other is the statue of Samuel Palmer, in the main street of Reading. The venerable biscuit maker has not only a chimney pot of the period, but an umbrella of the true Sairey Gamp kind. Both statues often cause a smile.—London Tit-Bits.

Thought and Speech.

In spite of Emerson consistency is a bobgoblin. Most of us cannot help feeling that what we have said one day we must abide by the next, and this makes us careful. We are brought up from youth to think twice before we speak, and so we do. We think perhaps three or four times, and when we have done our thinking we have begun to suspect that we are poor creatures anyway and might better not speak at all, which may be the case or not.—New York Telegram.

How They Clinched It.

Two women who were picking out the wall paper for an apartment had made some progress, but had not finished it when it was time for luncheon. The salesman had been obliging and expeditious and on the way out the customers asked his name of the manager so they could call for his services later. His name was Sheridan, and they decided to clinch it by thinking of "Sheridan's Ride."

Two hours later they returned and said they would like to see Paul Revere.—Chicago News.

Another Way.

"Why don't you throw away this old junk? It is of no use to any one."

"But that would make me feel wasteful."

"Then give it away and feel charitable."—Exchange.

FIRES IN 19 ARMS PLANTS.

Thirty-four Men Killed and 22 Injured Since European War Began.

Since the beginning of the European war there have been nineteen explosions and fires of undetermined origin, many of them under suspicious circumstances, in government arsenals and in powder factories and plants engaged on war contracts in the United States and one in Canada, with a total of thirty-four deaths and injuries to twenty-two.

It was not until last spring that explosions began to recur with sufficient frequency to attract special attention, and since then they have been happening at shorter and shorter intervals.

CAKE FILLINGS.

The plainest of cakes may be transformed into a creation by a good, tasty filling and a dainty icing. The small jars of fruit coloring once bought will last for years and if one has a small amount of candied cherries, citron, lemon and orange peel candied, with nut meats, figs and raisins there may be any number of attractive fillings made for cakes.

Caramel Nut Fillings. — Take two cupfuls of light brown sugar, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter and boil until it hairs. Remove from the fire, add a tablespoonful of cream, one-half a cupful of chopped nut meats, a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat until thick enough to spread.

Chocolate Filling.—Take two cupfuls of light brown sugar, two squares of chocolate, a cupful of milk and a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar; cook together until it forms a ball when dropped into cold water, add a tablespoonful of butter, remove from the fire and beat in a tablespoonful of cream, flavor with vanilla and beat until thick enough to pour over the cake.

Nut Filling.—Take a pound of brown sugar, half a cupful of milk, one-half cupful of butter, and a pound of walnuts. Put the sugar, butter and milk into a saucepan and boil until it makes a soft ball in cold water. Take from the fire and add the nuts chopped fine, reserving some whole ones to decorate the top. Beat the filling five minutes after taking from the fire, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and spread.

Fig Filling.—Cook together until smooth a half pound of chopped figs, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of water and cook until thick. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla and spread on the cake. The figs will be more delicious soaked in orange juice over night.

Boiled frosting with chopped fruit and nuts added makes a most delicious filling and one which may be varied with different fruits and nuts.

RAISING HORSES FOR PROFIT

Every Available Sound Mare Should Be Bred to Meet the Demand Caused by European War.

Ever since the first days of bicycles some have thought that the breeding of horses would become unprofitable. Meanwhile the horse has kept its place among domestic animals and we now have more than ever before. With the European war on us and so many horses being killed in battle the near future probably will see a greater demand for horses than at any time in the last century.

It is not advisable to breed a mare having serious defects, but every sound mare available should be bred to a stallion to produce stock to supply the coming demand. Don't think you are economizing to breed to some defective or disreputable stallion rather than pay a little higher price for the service of a good one.

Two years ago a farmer who had two mares of equal value bred one to a low-grade horse, the other to a good one. The colts had the same treatment in every respect. At weaning time he refused $100 for the better colt and could not find a buyer at $50 for the other. This demonstrates the benefit of breeding from the best. It takes no more to raise a good animal than a scrub, and the selling price is generally twice as much or more, and a buyer is much easier found.

GOOD MATERIAL FOR GROWTH

Alfalfa, Either in Green State or as Hay, Is One of the Best Feeds for the Young Pigs.

The pig which does not grow, but merely gets fat, is likely to die of "thumps." Corn makes fat. The small grains are richer in the things that make the bone and muscle needed if the pig is to grow. Two parts of shorts to one of corn is a growth ration rather than a fat ration.

Skim milk furnishes a good material for growth if fed with a little corn. When the shoats reach the weights of abouts 75 pounds, the feed may be made of one part of tankage to ten parts of corn, or one of the small grains. Small grains should be ground or crushed.

Alfalfa, either in the green state or as hay, is one of the best of feeds for the young pig. It feeds the bones and muscles, but should have corn to render it complete. These ideas have been found correct by the Nebraska station. Those who have not the alfalfa may grow rape as a growth crop. It is equal to alfalfa in materials for bone and muscle.

Pigs Need Protein.

Growing pigs need more protein than they can get from corn and pasture. Skim milk is fine for them and so is meat meal or tankage. In the writer's experience there is no better thing for growing pigs on pasture, that are getting some corn, than a slop made of shorts with a little tankage added. It sure helps a pig to make a hog of himself in quick time.

Keep the Colt Sleek.

A few minutes every day with brush and comb would keep the colt sleek. It is when we let this work slip by that we have to turn the little fellow out and leave him to get rid of dust and dirt.

Breed to Pure-Bred Stock.

If everybody insisted that they must breed their mares to pure-bred stock, it would not be long before scrub stallions would be scarcer than hen's teeth.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

VII.—Hon. Elihu Root

On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the duty of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon. Elihu Root, in discussing this question before the Constitutional Convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the State, and to every man and every woman in the State. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of woman. It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain functions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the performance of other functions.

Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nerveless for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard; harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth.

The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, a nobler and a purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

CARING FOR MARE AND FOAL

Whole Oats, Corn and Bran Are Practical Concentrates to Feed—Stall Should Be Well Cleaned.

(By E. H. HUGHES, Missouri Experiment Station.)

Mares in foal should receive regular exercise up to the time of foaling. It is advisable that they be worked lightly or that they have the run of a lot where exercise can be taken. In working mares in foal, experience proves that heavy pulling, jerking, backing and deep mud should be avoided.

Bright mixed hay, timothy, choice alfalfa and good clover are excellent roughages for mares in foal. Sound whole oats, corn and bran are very practical concentrates to feed them when heavy in foal. Two parts whole oats, two parts corn and one part bran, by weight (quantity to feed depends on size of mare), with what hay they will eat, is an excellent ration. It is advisable to feed but one-half the grain ration when it becomes apparent that a mare will foal within forty-eight hours. Shortly after the mare has foaled, a drink of lukewarm water should be given her. The same ration fed prior to foaling is usually satisfactory after foaling.

When it is possible, the mare should foal in a dry, well-lighted and bedded box stall or in a clean grass lot. If she foals in a box stall, it should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected with a five per cent solution of carbolic acid before she enters it. A light covering of air-slaked lime on the floor underneath the bedding is very practical safeguard against "navel" trouble.

After she has foaled it is advisable to clean the stall immediately, disinfect again and bed thoroughly. As a preventive of navel and joint disease in the foal, saturate its navel as soon as possible with a five per cent solution of lysol or other disinfectant. To prevent blistering the colt's belly smear the parts at the base of the navel board with vaseline or unsalted lard before applying the disinfectant.

LESS WASTE WITH ROUGHAGE

When Given to Sheep on Ground it is Trampled Upon—Racks Have Proved Entirely Satisfactory.

(By E. L. SHAW.)

It is hardly necessary to say that there is less waste when roughage is fed to sheep in racks rather than upon the ground. When fed in the latter way much of it is trampled upon and soiled and then the sheep refuse to eat it.

There are several types of feed racks that are quite satisfactory. A combination rack for feeding both roughage and grain is convenient, especially where the amount of space is limited. Some racks are boarded up solidly, with openings through which the sheep eat; others are slatted horizontally, this type being largely used in the west.

Racks with vertical slats are also used; these slats should not be too wide apart with suckling ewes or the lambs will get in upon the feed and soil it. Having the upper part of the rack boarded solid is desirable, as it prevents chaff from falling into the fleece.

KEEP FOWLS HEALTHY

Ground on Which House Stands Must Be Cleaned Often.

Advisable to Keep Walls of Building Off Ground—Exclude Drafts by Nailing Battens Over Joints—Place for Door.

With regard to the exterior and interior arrangements of poultry houses, the advantage of not having a wooden floor is that the hens keep healthier than if there was a fitted floor.

If a portable house and too large to move on to fresh ground as often as would be necessary to keep the ground clean, but since cleanliness is essential to success, the ground on which the house stands must be cleaned and newly littered frequently.

Some of the best materials to use as litter are moss litters, cinders and ashes, straw or hay.

Sawdust is not a good litter in such a place, whatever it may be on a dry floor, because it absorbs and retains much moisture from the ground.

It is advisable to keep the walls of the house off the ground by standing them on a sill made of the most durable wood, and in this way they are kept from early decay, and the wood will also hold longest by placing the boards upright and fixing them in this position to the framework.

Drafts may be excluded, as it is most necessary they should be, by nailing thin battens two inches wide over the joints between the boards on the outside walls.

The boards of the roof should, on the other hand, run lengthwise from end to end of the house and parallel with the ground, for though they may not hold so long in this position or if placed upright, they can be preserved by annual painting or tarring, and it is the only way of making a thoroughly rainproof roof, that will remain rainproof for years in all changes of weather.

Thin, rough and cheap boards will suffice for the inside sheeting if a layer of paper is put between the lining and the outer walls.

In this way drafts are effectually excluded.

The most convenient position of the door is in one of the gable ends, so that it may be almost the full height of the house. A window may be placed in one of the sides, and the nest boxes may be arranged on the outside of the end opposite the door, with openings to them from the house and a hinged lid, so that the attendant can take away the eggs without entering the house.

By this arrangement it is unnecessary to leave a passage in the house and the perches may be stretched entirely across it from one side to the other.

The frame is of studding 2x4 inches, weather-boarded, with worked barn boards, lined with same, with smooth side out, having building paper or tar paper tacked up to the studding under it. Roosts hang from ceiling on iron rods to within fourteen or sixteen inches from floor; a board set in grooves in the walk divides floor space under roosts to keep droppings from mixing with litter on balance of floor. Feed troughs are placed around walls. Ladders lead up from scratching floor to each roosting room. This roosting department is sealed up on undersides of rafters, which permits of a window in each gable above the square of the building, giving splendid ventilation. The wings are three feet high in front and seven feet where they join roost rooms. The space under floor of main building is a part of scratching floor with a lath partition extending through.

EFFECT OF CROSSING BREEDS

Great Changes in Shape of Progeny Often Made—How to Secure Barred Chickens.

Crossing breeds makes great changes more often than not in the shape and color of the progeny. The mother will give the shape and weight of her body to the cross and, according to the sex, the father changes the feather coloring.

For instance, Barred Rock males crossed with pure-bred Black Langshan hens will give you all barred chickens, but reverse the cross, breeding a Black Langshan male to Barred Rock hens, and only the cockerels will be barred.

Mulch for Bush Fruits.

Put a thick layer of straw or other litter about blackberries and raspberries to have the moisture, and if dry weather comes you will get fruit whether the other fellow does or not.

The Beloved Art of Soothing

There are many types of femininity, but perhaps the rarest and most appreciated is the girl who soothes. There are so many vivacious girls, types which excite one to mirth or to lively interest, but there is only one girl in a hundred who soothes. She is like the oasis in the desert, restful, refreshing, welcome to one and all. The woman with the keen wit, she of the bubbling mirth, the girl with the languorous manner, all are of interest at times and under certain conditions, but the girl who soothes never fails to attract wherever she may be.

It is she who smoothes down your ruffled feelings when circumstances seem to have conspired against your peace of mind. If your dressmaker has failed to deliver your new frock at the promised time or if your maid has just broken your favorite bit of china, you take your troubles to the girl who soothes and come away feeling much better for her cheering words.

To learn this most difficult branch of social diplomacy—namely, the gentle art of soothing—you must have, first of all, a goodly share of intuition. There are times when your ruffled friend may want you to ignore her very apparent perturbation. At other times she may be just waiting for you to speak a word of sympathy or perhaps to touch upon the upsetting subject in order to burst out with her whole tale of woe. Your intuition will have to tell you.

One of the first things for you to learn in the gentle art of soothing is never to disturb your friend's poses. There is nothing quite so ruffling as to have one's pose detected. If a friend is a chronic invalid (with nothing really the matter) sympathize with her imagined aches and pains just as if they were real.

If a friend has her mind all made up to be a martyr let her be one and don't suggest possible ways out of her martyrdom. She will rant on for hours on the subject of all she has to undergo, and it would be fatally tactless to disturb her in this pose. If she imagines her husband untrue to her just because he has had to consult a woman client on a matter of business, condole with her by all means, whether you think her foolish or not.

You must never suggest by any chance that your confidant was in the wrong in a quarrel. If she tells you at length how Bobby and she no longer speak to each other because he is so ridiculously jealous, smooth her down in your most tactful way. Bobby would not be so jealous if he did not care for her; never intimate in the faintest way that she would give any one ample cause for jealousy.

If you want to be one of those rare creatures, a girl who soothes, never tell a tired woman shopper that she could have obtained much better bargains at another store. If a friend wears an overelaborate gown, make no comment on it, but tell her that you have never seen her hair look so well. It is strange how far an adroit compliment will go at times toward smoothing a ruffled mind.

There are women, however, who cannot be helped by such methods at all. You must study your friends and their characters in order to learn the art of soothing thoroughly. There is no single way, but rather myriad of ways of calming down a ruffled mind. In fact, each woman seems to need a different treatment.

It is well worth studying the art, however, for the girl who soothes is beloved by all who know her.

ATTRACTIVE FOR GUESTS.

Very few young housekeepers have been spared the acute misery of trying to equip the guest room for the unexpected guest at the last minute.

The best sheets were probably at the laundry, the supply of Turkish towels had suddenly reduced itself to rock bottom, and most tragic of all there was not a single presentable nightgown to offer the guest, who had left her own at home.

Only a very few of these humiliating experiences are needed to make the hostess appreciate the advantage of a guest chest.

The chest may be a shirt waist box, a carved oak or cedar chest or whatever fits into the general scheme of the guest room.

In it should be stowed a nightgown, kimono or bathrobe, a dressing jacket, an extra pair of blankets, an extra coverlet, a hot water bag, several large and small sized towels, washcloths, individual cakes of soap, absorbent cotton, court plaster and medical helps.

It is a gracious touch to add other things for the comfort of the guest, articles she might hesitate to ask for, such as a work basket equipped with black and white thread, a darning ball, needles and pins, scissors, card of hooks and eyes, a roll of linen tape, buttons and numerous other things that suggest themselves.

A list should be kept of all articles in the chest, and as soon as any part of the supply is exhausted it should be replaced immediately.

BIG DELEGATION TO HEAR CLARK

MEETING OF DEMOCRATS SATURDAY ASSURES LARGE CROWD.

SPECIAL TRAIN AND BANDS, PROBABLE

An extra to be Run if 150 Get Tickets Committee Appointed to Urge Attendance.

A big delegation of Nodaway Democrats is going to St. Joseph October 1 to hear Champ Clark, speaker of the House, and to attend the great rally at which both of the United States senators, almost all of the congressmen from Missouri, and other leaders of the party, will speak.

The Nodaway delegation is going to take several bands with it. The Maryville Democrats are going to get a special train if possible to bring them home that night after the meeting. These things were definitely decided upon at the meeting of the Democrats of Nodaway county at the court house late Saturday afternoon. A committee composed of A. S. Robey ,Judge W. M. Blackford, Fred Yeomans, D. R. Baker and J. K. Sawyers was selected to see the Democrats of Maryville and of Polk township and urge them to attend.

A special train will be run from St. Joseph after the meeting that night if enough people can be secured to come back then. It will take about 150 people to insure a special and the committee for Polk township will work toward that end.

John Gex of Hughes township, reported that there will be a large number from that township who will attend the meeting and that probably the Graham band will be taken along.

L. B. Campbell of Barnard, also reported that many Democrats from Barnard and Grant township will attend. A number of others stated that indications are that there will be many from their part of the county.

The Fourth Regiment band will be taken with the Maryville delegation. It is suggested that the Democrats on the west side of the county could attend the meeting by going to St. Joseph on the regular trains on that branch and then return to Maryville that night on the special train.

John M. Dawson, chairman of the county committee, presided at the meeting.

The Democratic state committee will also meet at the St. Joseph rally, it is thought. The rally will be the first one to be held in the state by the Democrats and will be the opening of the campaign for next year.

To Eastern Schools.

N. Sisson and his daughter, Miss Donna Sisson and Miss May Corwin will leave tonight for New York City, where the two young women will spend the coming year at school. Miss Corwin, who will stop en route for a visit at Cincinnati, Ohio, will spend the year studying music and taking graduate work at Columbia university. Miss Sisson will enter Pratt Institute at Brooklyn for her second years' work in art. Mr. Sisson will spend a few weeks visiting various places of interest, the principal one of which will be the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Washington, D. C., which meets September 27 to October 2.

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 20.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., arrived here today for the purpose of spending several weeks in an inspection of his mining property. The promise was made to the noted labor leader at the hearing before the Federal Industrial Relations Commission in New York.

FAMOUS AMERICAN SOPRANO TO OPEN LYCEUM, OCTOBER 26.

Alice Nielsen, Prima Donna Soprano of the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Companies.

"HEARING AMERICA FIRST."

Alice Nielsen, Who Opens Lyceum on October 26, a Foremost American Star.

"Hearing America First" might be given as the guiding spirit of the lyceum committee in securing Miss Alice Nielsen, the famous prima donna of the Boston and Metropolitan Opera Companies, in preference to artists of another nationality.

Miss Nielsen is rated among vocalists as one of the foremost of American opera stars and it is not often that a city as small as Maryville is able to get an engagement. Her price of $600 which the Maryville lyceum contracted for is sufficient proof of her excellence. Local music lovers are anticipating a rare treat and are planning to entertain friends from Northwest Missouri and southwest Iowa.

NEW CONSTITUTION

GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO CONSIDER IT AT NEXT SESSION.

OLD ONE IS OUTGROWN

During 40 Years Twenty-Two Changes Have Been Made in the Original Constitution.

Advocates of a new constitution for Missouri, conspicuous among whom are Speaker Champ Clark and Chairman John M. Atkinson of the Missouri public service commission, think it would be unwise to submit the question at the next general election through the initiative. In fact, they point out that such a procedure would not, if the proposition carried at the polls, secure a new and modern instrument for the government of the state very much in advance of legislative enactment through the regular channel at the 1917 session of the general assembly.

They say it would be far better to have the proposition put up to the people by act of the general assembly. There is no telling what may or may not be submitted in the way of amendments to the present constitution, under the initiative, at the general election next year. There may be several meritorious propositions and some that are the reverse, and the good ones will suffer merely from association with others that are not good.

Missouri has had four constitutional conventions since she entered into statehood. The 1875 convention drafted the present constitution. It met in Jefferson City, May 5, 1875. By proclamation of the governor the present constitution became the organic law of the state, November 30, 1875.

During the forty years of its existence there have been seventy-one amendments submitted, of which twenty-two were adopted. The first one adopted was in 1884, when the people voted affirmatively for the establishment of the Kansas City court of appeals.

Some of the propositions rejected by the voters of Missouri were state-wide prohibition, women suffrage, removal to Sedalia and giving grand juries the right to open ballot boxes in election fraud investigations.

The last general assembly submitted but one proposition to be voted upon at the election in 1916. That was an amendment under which it would have been possible for the state to pension the deserving blind, but it was dragged down because of the unpopularity of some of the others.

A business meeting will follow the good things. The banquet and meeting is open only to members of the special department. Lawrence Schumacher and Howard McCaffrey are the committee in charge of all the arrangements.

Jefferson City, Sept. 20.—Asa Hudson state capitol correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Morris Gordon, son of the auditor of the state of Missouri, staged a pugilistic match in the auditor's office at noon today.

BIBLE SCHOOL RALLY

AT THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUNDAY MORNING.

TO TAKE MOVING PICTURES

Parade Will Be Given Before the Bible School Around the City.—Slogan Is "999 Plus You."

The First Christian church Bible school will have a rally next Sunday morning and the slogan chosen is "999 plus you." Fred P. Robinson is superintendent of the Bible school and the committee in charge of the rally is Misses Fannie Hope and Laura Hawkins and Edward Gray.

Before the Bible school, a parade will be given around the business section of the city and moving pictures will be taken of the parade, which are to be shown at the Empire theatre at a later date by the church. Automobiles will also be at five different stations at the outer edges of the city to convey people to the Bible school.

The Bible school is expected to break all records at this rally and the campaign will be kept up.

The program for the rally will be announced later this week.

35 AUTOS AT AUCTION.

Five Maxwells a Day at Buyer's Price at State Fair.

For the first time in the history of the automobile industry in Missouri, if not in the United States, Maxwell automobiles, 1916 model 25, touring car, will be sold at auction at Missouri's state fair during the seven full days the fair is in progress.

R. F. Boehme, proprietor of Le Grande garage, is staging the auction, which will be conducted in a tent 100 x 100 feet, to be erected in the fence section just west of the Poultry building.

An admission charge of 50 cents will be made to this tent, which will comfortably hold 2,000 people. A competent and reputable auctioneer will be in charge, and every transaction connected with the auction is guaranteed by the Maxwell Motor Co., of Detroit, Mich.

The service guarantee of every retailer of Maxwells goes with each of the thirty-five cars to be sold at auction. If a man at St. Joseph bids off a car at $50, the Maxwell dealer at St. Joseph is under contract to give the purchaser full Maxwell service. This is guaranteed by the Maxwell company.

The thirty-five cars that are to be sold at auction at the buyer's own price are now on their way from Detroit and will be stored in the fair grounds before the end of ten days.

No care will be premitted to sell for more than retail price. In the event it is thus run up another car will be immediately put up to be sold. Five auctions per day will be conducted. No car will be sold twice and there will be no by-bidding. The tent will be emptied five times a day, or for each auction.

The possibility of getting a car from $1 to $690, the retail price in Sedalia, will, no doubt, prove alluring to those wishing to purchase a car to go home from the state fair in.

Cars will be sold for cash or its equivalent in a certified check or draft. Out of town buyers can make a deposit to hold the car for ten days. There is no raffle or chance about the plan, which has been subjected to the most close legal scrutiny. —Sedalia Democrat, Sept. 10, 1915.

New York, Sept. 20.—Passengers from London today on the first steamers to arrive since the Zeppelin raids upon that city assert that the British censors have withheld much of the truth concerning the damage done.

They say that the loss of life and the property destroyed was much greater than the press dispatches would indicate. At least fifty persons were killed in their opinion. The bombs were dropped upon the heart of the great city.

The aircraft and aerial guns were powerless against the airships and were not able to repell the attacks in any way, according to the travelers.

WEST'S "PLATTSBURG" OPENS

Famous Citizen "Rookies" Enter Camp at Fort Sheridan for Military Training.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Fort Sheridan, Sept. 20.—With several hundred business men, lawyers, doctors and others from civil life as "rookies" an auspicious start was made here today on the training camp for the middle west, which is modelled after the successful experiment at Plattsburg, N. Y.

Many notable men from Chicago are enrolled, including Mayor Thompson, U. S. Sub-treasurer Irving Shuman, state representative George U. Lipschulch, J. M. Dickinson, son of the former secretary of war, and Dr. J. W. Miller of Cincinnati and Mayor Harry P. Pearsons of Evanston are all expected to "do their bit," as the British say.

The commander of the camp, Col. William J. Nicholson, U. S. A., after looking over the raw material and observing the eagerness with which the "hay-foot-straw-foot" novitiates took up their work, expressed himself as well pleased with the prospects of the camp.

Every man brought to the camp one pair of marching shoes, one suit of cotton olive drab uniform, one extra pair of breeches, one campaign hat, two cotton or wool olive drab colored shirts, one pair of leggings, medium weight socks and fall underwear. The government furnished the rest.

Each man deposited $25 on arrival in camp to cover substance and camp expenses. Simple food is furnished, for which the would-be soldiers would pay 50 cents a day. The total necessary cost per man will be about $40, including uniform and incidentals.

The regiment will be put through a hard course of sprouts, beginning with the most elementary routine of the soldier and ending up with practice "hikes" and sham battles.

ARCHIBALD NOT ARRESTED

Bearer of Letters Protests Innocence Again and Calls Prosecution Unjust.—Arrives on Rotterdam.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Sept. 20.—James E. Archibald, from whom British secret service men took letters which caused the United States to ask for the recall of the Austrian Ambassabor, Dr. Dumba, arrived in this city today on the steamer Rotterdam. He was not arrested but went at once to the office of his lawyer.

Mr. Archibald reiterrated his statements, made at the time of the discovery of the documents, that he was carrying the papers unwittingly and that he was absolutely innocent of any wrong. He declared that the prosecution which is contemplated by the federal officials would be most unjust.

Kansas City, Sept. 20.—Judge Booth overruled this morning the motion to dismiss the case against John Beery, George Davis and W. Meyer in the American Union Bank Case. All of the defendants must stand trial.

The defendants are so confident that the government failed to make a case that they will introduce defensive evidence.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Those 600 business and professional men who have enlisted from this city for service in military training at Fort Sheridan received an early initiation into the trials of soldier life when they were forced to march through the streets here in a heavy rain today on the way to the station. They were soon a bedraggled but undaunted lot.

RUSSIANS ADMIT FALL OF VILNA

SLAV FORCES HAVE TAKEN STAND ON HEIGHTS TO SOUTHEAST.

RETREAT ORDERED TO SAVE THE CITY

Fortress Was Considered Worthless to Russians After Railway to Piensk Was Cut.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Petrograd, Sept. 20.—The Russian war office admitted this morning that Vilna has been occupied by the German forces. It was announced that the Russian forces withdrew to prevent the destruction of the city.

The fortress was considered worthless to the Russian from a military point of view after the Teutonic army had cut the railway line to Piensk, according to Slav strategists. That feeling strengthened the Russian desire to retire in good order and thus save the city from bombardment.

The retreating forces have taken a stand on the heights to the southeast of Vilna where they are resisting obstinately. The Germans are better equipped and much stronger but the Russians have been able to check the advance of the left wing.

Severe fighting is ranging west of Dvinsk. The heaviest artillery of the German forces is being used.

BERLIN CELEBRATES AGAIN

Fall of Vilna Causes Great Rejoicing and Hope in German Capital.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Berlin Sept. 20.—The whole city of Berlin was thrown into another semi-holiday of rejoicing by the announcement that Vilna had fallen. Many extra flags were unfurled, speeches were made, and all the gala features that have followed other victories were in evidence.

The feeling of joy was heightened by the confidence of the people that the third line of the Russian defense was broken and that the great battle now being fought east of Vilna would result in the capture of the Slav army of a quarter of a million of men.

The fall of Dvinsk around which the fighting now centers, is expected within a few days.

HAS BULGARIA DECIDED?

Removal of Restrictions on Goods to Turkey Causes Suspicion in London.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, Sept. 20.—A dispatch from Sophia says that all restrictions have been removed by Bulgaria from goods on passage through that country to Turkey.

The news is taken in London to mean that Bulgaria has decided to ally herself definitely with the Germanic allies.

Native Killed in Haiti Battle.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Admiral Caperton, in charge of the marines in Haiti, reported to Secretary of the Navy Daniels that one native was killed in the battle yesterday at Gonjaves, Haiti. No Americans were injured. The marines dominate the situation and have repaired a broken water main in the town.

BUY IT IN MARYVILLE

In this shield the Democrat-Forum introduces to you an old suggestion in a new form. "Buy it in Maryville." This slogan is one that should be generally adopted and practiced by all. It embodies the spirit of a good town and a hearty co-operation between merchant and customer that makes for the good of both. It is a pledge of success for the local merchant and a pledge of value received and square dealing for those who buy in Maryville.

It was inevitable, of course, that Villa and Vilna would get mixed in headlines and press reports.

A GREAT man quotes bravely, and will not draw on his invention when his memory serves him with a word as good.—Emerson.

An original article by Mrs. William J. Bryan will be among the interesting features to be found in the ladies' edition of the Democrat-Forum next Saturday.

Among the multitude of attempts at wit upon the name of Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, we have failed to notice one observing that the Austrian Ambassador is now a Dun-baa.

Prominent Republicans are beginning to observe that nothing can cause defeat for their party next year except the war. Those "excepts" are pillows upon which the prophets hope to light when the returns come in.

The ladies' edition of the Democrat-Forum is coming like a whirlwind. It will be a daisy. If you are not already on our subscription list, get on at once and be in line for the woman's edition—not the big woman's edition but the woman's big edition.

ABOUT RUSSIAN FEDERALISM.

From the Chicago Journal:

Literature continues to come to this desk telling how wide are the differences between the "Ukrainians," or people of southwestern Russia, and those subjects of the white czar whose social center is Moscow or Novgorod.

The first temptation of a busy Yankee is to toss all such pamphlets aside, the more so as they average very vehement in character, but that would be an error. True, to American students it seems as idle to balance the respective merits of Moscow and Kiev as to speculate whether the world would not have been better had Toulouse, instead of Paris, served as the rallying point of France. But the mere fact that such arguments can arise is a fact of large importance.

It shows that The Journal's remark about the growth of federalism is Russia was not premature. That empire is not the highly unified thing which most outside observers imagine. The Slav, as this paper has said some scores of times, is not a uniform type—a robber type at that, seeking what he may devour. He is rather good-humored rather dreamy, somewhat backward individual, whose native tendency is to insist on local independence, and who forms empires only when he is kicked into doing so by hostile nations or led by princes trained in foreign ideas.

Some day, perhaps not so very distant, there will be a federal empire of Russia. After that, there may come a federal republic. In either case, local self-government is bound to be one of the dominating ideas of Slavdom—and the pamphlets which rage so furiously at the czar prove it.

Dazzling Ink.

Here is an actual instance of Russian gallantry. A celebrated opera singer, who once "starred" in Paris received from a Muscovite prince a handsome brooch set with diamonds. But not wishing to accept a gift, the motive of which might be misconstrued, she returned it with warm thanks. The next day she received a letter from the prince approving highly of her decision. But the writing in this letter had a singularly glistening appearance, and it afterward transpired that the magnate had reduced the returned diamonds to fine powder, with which he had besprinkled the wet ink, and had thus insured the acceptance of his homage.

A Magnificent Vessel.

In 268 B. C. Archimedes devised a marvelous ship for Hiero of Syracuse. Her three lofty masts had been brought from Britain. Luxuriously fitted sleeping apartments abounded, and one of her banqueting halls was paved with agate and costly Sicilian stone. Other floors were cunningly inlaid with scenes from the "Iliad." Stables for many horses, ponds stocked with live fish, gardens watered by artificial rivulets and hot baths were provided for use or amusement.—Chambers' Journal.

Westminster Abbey.

The full legal title of Westminster abbey is "the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Westminster." Very few people have heard the famous burial place so designated. A collegiate church, as distinguished from a parish church, is one that is administered by a "college" of priests instead of an individual rector or vicar.—Westminster Gazette.

He Weakened.

"Did you speak to father about me, Arthur?"

"Yes; I did, dear, and he agreed with me heartily."

"Then he said I might marry you?"

"Why—er—no. I didn't quite get to the point of asking him that. I just said you were a fine girl."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

SUCCESS.

Success means hard work. The road to success is not to be run upon by seven league boots. Step by step, little by little, bit by bit, that is the way to wealth, that is the way to wisdom, that is the way to glory.—Charles Buxton.

From a well informed source it is learned that military men estimate there are 40,000 German machine guns in position on the Western front alone. This means more than one machine gun for every 40 men, putting the Germans' strength at 1,500,000 or one for every twenty-five yards of front.

How to Prevent Hog Cholera.

If hog cholera is suspected remove all well hogs from the lots they are occupying to clean grounds is the recommendation of the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. On the appearance of any sickness in any of these hogs, remove the sick hog promptly from the well ones, placing them in a small pen where they can be watched and their excrement disinfected. Use an abundance of air slacked lime about the premises. Scrape all litter off the old hog lots and thoroughly "lime them."

Horticultural Advice

BEST LOCATION FOR GRAPES

Plant Two-Year-Old Vines on Southern, Eastern or Southeastern Slope in Straight Rows.

Any good farm land will grow grapes. Plant on a gentle eastern, southern or southeastern slope. If the land is stiff clay it needs drainage Plant two-year-old vines.

Buy direct from a reliable nursery man—not of agents. Set the vines in straight rows eight feet apart—the vines eight feet apart in the row, says a writer in Baltimore American Have the ground deeply plowed and well pulverized, plow out the rows, going twice in each row with the plow This will save hand labor. Set the vines the same depth they grew in the nursery, spread out the roots, cover with good earth, press the earth, as it is put in, with the foot. After all the earth is in, spread one forkful of long manure, rotted leaves or straw around each vine. This mulch will keep the ground cool and moist.

Drive down a stout stake close to each vine and train to one cane. Tie the cane as it advances in growth to the stake. When four feet in height, nip off the top bud. Cultivate the ground between the rows—the ground must be mellow and free from weeds and grass.

Never let the ground crust over and become hard and dry, as this stops all growth. The best varieties for family use are Concord, Niagara and Delaware. For warm, sandy and gravelly soils, add a few vines of Catawba. It is one of the best grapes for this class of soils—it requires high culture.

SPRAYS FOR APPLE ORCHARD

Ideal Combination for Controlling Various Pests Has Not Yet Been Put on Market.

(By W. J. MORSE.)

In spite of the fact that a large amount of work has been done both in this and in other countries, in studying the effects of different insecticides and fungicides upon the trees themselves and their efficiency in controlling the various insect and fungous pests, the ideal spray or combination of sprays for use on apple orchards has not yet been discovered. It is true that with the introduction of lime-sulphur some of the previous difficulties have been eliminated, but at the same time there are others of equal importance which have arisen or which have not been overcome. This is particularly the case under the climatic conditions which exist in the apple growing regions of the northeastern portion of the United States, where apple scab frequently appears in its most virulent form.

While it is granted that lime-sulphur, as ordinarily used, has been found to be less likely to produce spray injury, many orchardists maintain that in practical work it is less efficient with them than bordeaux mixture in controlling apple scab. In fact, a prominent apple grower recently told the writer that even with the most careful and thorough spraying with lime-sulphur their fruit the past season was badly attacked by scab and that some orchardists were seriously considering going back to bordeaux mixture this year. On the other hand, it has been the writer's experience that with varieties susceptible to spray injury lime-sulphur is, on the whole, by far the most satisfactory material.

European Apple Canker of Crotch of Tree.

The question of the proper fungicide to use is by no means the only important matter involved in efficient orchard spraying. Insecticides are necessary and it is both necessary and convenient to use them in combination with fungicides. While a fairly settled policy has been reached as to the proper time to apply the various sprays or combinations of sprays to secure the greatest efficiency there is still insufficient data with regard to many points connected with apple culture.

Singular Statues.

The bust of Mr. Chamberlain, with an eyeglass, in the Guildhall reminds one of the statue of Francois Coppee in Paris, with a marble cigarette. There are two statues in Great Britain which deserve including in the catalogue of sculptured curiosities. One stands in the central square of Glasgow and represents the figure of James Oswald, M. P., holding his top hat upside down by the brim, as if he were offering to catch pennies. The other is the statue of Samuel Palmer, in the main street of Reading. The venerable biscuit maker has not only a chimney pot of the period, but an umbrella of the true Sairey Gamp kind. Both statues often cause a smile.—London Tit-Bits.

Thought and Speech.

In spite of Emerson consistency is a hobgoblin. Most of us cannot help feeling that what we have said one day we must abide by the next, and this makes us careful. We are brought up from youth to think twice before we speak, and so we do. We think perhaps three or four times, and when we have done our thinking we have begun to suspect that we are poor creatures anyway and might better not speak at all, which may be the case or not.—New York Telegram.

How They Clinched It.

Two women who were picking out the wall paper for an apartment had made some progress, but had not finished it when it was time for luncheon. The salesman had been obliging and expeditious and on the way out the customers asked his name of the manager so they could call for his services later. His name was Sheridan, and they decided to clinch it by thinking of "Sheridan's Ride."

Two hours later they returned and said they would like to see Paul Revere.—Chicago News.

Another Way.

"Why don't you throw away this old junk? It is of no use to any one."

"But that would make me feel wasteful."

"Then give it away and feel charitable."—Exchange.

FIRES IN 19 ARMS PLANTS.

Thirty-four Men Killed and 22 Injured Since European War Began.

Since the beginning of the European war there have been nineteen explosions and fires of undetermined origin, many of them under suspicious circumstances, in government arsenals and in powder factories and plants engaged on war contracts in the United States and one in Canada, with a total of thirty-four deaths and injuries to twenty-two.

It was not until last spring that explosions began to recur with sufficient frequency to attract special attention, and since then they have been happening at shorter and shorter intervals.

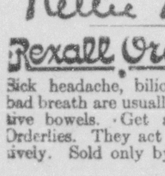
CAKE FILLINGS.

The plainest of cakes may be transformed into a creation by a good, tasty filling and a dainty icing. The small jars of fruit coloring once bought will last for years and if one has a small amount of candied cherries, citron, lemon and orange peel candied, with nut meats, figs and raisins there may be any number of attractive fillings made for cakes.



Caramel Nut Fillings. — Take two cupfuls of light brown sugar, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter and boil until it hairs. Remove from the fire, add a tablespoonful of cream, one-half a cupful of chopped nut meats, a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat until thick enough to spread.

Chocolate Filling.—Take two cupfuls of light brown sugar, two squares of chocolate, a cupful of milk and a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar; cook together until it forms a ball when dropped into cold water, add a tablespoonful of butter, remove from the fire and beat in a tablespoonful of cream, flavor with vanilla and beat until thick enough to pour over the cake.

Nut Filling.—Take a pound of brown sugar, half a cupful of milk, one-half cupful of butter, and a pound of walnuts. Put the sugar, butter and milk into a saucepan and boil until it makes a soft ball in cold water. Take from the fire and add the nuts chopped fine, reserving some whole ones to decorate the top. Beat the filling five minutes after taking from the fire, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and spread.

Fig Filling.—Cook together until smooth a half pound of chopped figs, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of water and cook until thick. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla and spread on the cake. The figs will be more delicious soaked in orange juice over-night.

Boiled frosting with chopped fruit and nuts added makes a most delicious filling and one which may be varied with different fruits and nuts.

LIVE STOCK

RAISING HORSES FOR PROFIT

Every Available Sound Mare Should Be Bred to Meet the Demand Caused by European War.

Ever since the first days of bicycles some have thought that the breeding of horses would become unprofitable. Meanwhile the horse has kept its place among domestic animals and we now have more than ever before. With the European war on us and so many horses being killed in battle the near future probably will see a greater demand for horses than at any time in the last century.

It is not advisable to breed a mare having serious defects, but every sound mare available should be bred to a stallion to produce stock to supply the coming demand. Don't think you are economizing to breed to some defective or disreputable stallion rather than pay a little higher price for the service of a good one.

Two years ago a farmer who had two mares of equal value bred one to a low-grade horse, the other to a good one. The colts had the same treatment in every respect. At weaning time he refused $100 for the better colt and could not find a buyer at $50 for the other. This demonstrates the benefit of breeding from the best. It takes no more to raise a good animal than a scrub, and the selling price is generally twice as much or more, and a buyer is much easier found.

GOOD MATERIAL FOR GROWTH

Alfalfa, Either in Green State or as Hay, Is One of the Best Feeds for the Young Pigs.

The pig which does not grow, but mgrely gets fat, is likely to die of "thumps." Corn makes fat. The small grains are richer in the things that make the bone and muscle needed if the pig is to grow. Two parts of shorts to one of corn is a growth ration rather than a fat ration.

Skim milk furnishes a good material for growth if fed with a little corn. When the shoats reach the weights of about 75 pounds, the feed may be made of one part of tankage to ten parts of corn, or one of the small grains. Small grains should be ground or crushed.

Alfalfa, either in the green state or as hay, is one of the best of feeds for the young pig. It feeds the bones and muscles, but should have corn to render it complete. These ideas have been found correct by the Nebraska station. Those who have not the alfalfa may grow rape as a growth crop. It is equal to alfalfa in materials for bone and muscle.

Pigs Need Protein.

Growing pigs need more protein than they can get from corn and pasture. Skim milk is fine for them and so is meat meal or tankage. In the writer's experience there is no better thing for growing pigs on pasture, that are getting some corn, than a slop made of shorts with a little tankage added. It sure helps a pig to make a hog of himself in quick time.

Keep the Colt Sleek.

A few minutes every day with brush and comb would keep the colt sleek. It is when we let this work slip by that we have to turn the little fellow out and leave him to get rid of dust and dirt.

Breed to Pure-Bred Stock.

If everybody insisted that they must breed their mares to pure-bred stock, it would not be long before scrub stallions would be scarcer than hen's teeth.

THE MISSOURI STATE FAIR GROUNDS DURING FAIR WEEK ALWAYS PRESENT A SCENE OF ACTIVITY AND ANIMATION.

The purring of ever-moving automobiles, the shuffle of thousands of feet over the walks and streets of the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia make the grounds take on the aspects of a great city in the country, for the fair grounds, with their magnificent permanent structures, are really a city in the country, as it were.

Looking down the government highway, as in the accompanying illustration, one sees the Woman's building and the livestock pavilion, two of the centers of activity, all during the fair, for the women of Missouri make the Woman's building on the fair ground their central meeting place and stockmen and farmers and society folks gather for four nights in the livestock pavilion for the greatest horse show given anywhere in the central west.

During the days from September 25 to October 2 this year, the Missouri vilion will be the scene of the exhibition and judging of the best livestock Missouri has ever sent to her State Fair.

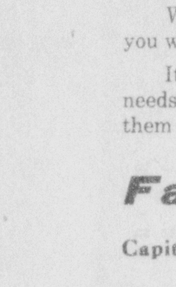
OUR PUBLIC FORUM

VII.—Hon. Elihu Root

On Woman's Sphere



The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the duty of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon. Elihu Root, in discussing this question before the Constitutional Convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the State, and to every man and every woman in the State. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of woman. It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain functions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the performance of other functions.

Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nerveless for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth.

The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, a nobler and a purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

CARING FOR MARE AND FOAL

Whole Oats, Corn and Bran Are Practical Concentrates to Feed—Stall Should Be Well Cleaned.

(By E. H. HUGHES, Missouri Experiment Station.)

Mares in foal should receive regular exercise up to the time of foaling. It is advisable that they be worked lightly or that they have the run of a lot where exercise can be taken. In working mares in foal, experience proves that heavy pulling, jerking, backing and deep mud should be avoided.

Bright mixed hay, timothy, choice alfalfa and good clover are excellent roughages for mares in foal. Sound whole oats, corn and bran are very practical concentrates to feed them when heavy in foal. Two parts whole oats, two parts corn and one part bran, by weight (quantity to feed depends on size of mare), with what hay they will eat, is an excellent ration. It is advisable to feed but one-half the grain ration when it becomes apparent that a mare will foal within forty-eight hours. Shortly after the mare has foaled, a drink of lukewarm water should be given her. The same ration fed prior to foaling is usually satisfactory after foaling.

When it is possible, the mare should foal in a dry, well-lighted and bedded box stall or in a clean grass lot. If she foals in a box stall, it should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected with a five per cent solution of carbolic acid before she enters it. A light covering of air-slaked lime on the floor underneath the bedding is very practical safeguard against "navel" trouble.

After she has foaled it is advisable to clean the stall immediately, disinfect again and bed thoroughly. As a preventive of navel and joint disease in the foal, saturate its navel as soon as possible with a five per cent solution of lysol or other disinfectant. To prevent blistering the colt's belly smear the parts at the base of the navel board with vaseline or unsalted lard before applying the disinfectant.

LESS WASTE WITH ROUGHAGE

When Given to Sheep on Ground it is Trampled Upon—Racks Have Proved Entirely Satisfactory.

(By E. L. SHAW.)

It is hardly necessary to say that there is less waste when roughage is fed to sheep in racks rather than upon the ground. When fed in the latter way much of it is trampled upon and soiled and then the sheep refuse to eat it.

There are several types of feed racks that are quite satisfactory. A combination rack for feeding both roughage and grain is convenient, especially where the amount of space is limited. Some racks are boarded up solidly, with openings through which the sheep eat; others are slatted horizontally, this type being largely used in the west.

Racks with vertical slats are also used; these slats should not be too wide apart with suckling ewes or the lambs will get in upon the feed and soil it. Having the upper part of the rack boarded solid is desirable, as it prevents chaff from falling into the fleece.

MANGER FOR GREEDY HORSES

Box Arranged Through Partition With Narrow Opening at Bottom Compels Animal to Eat Slowly.

A box to induce a greedy horse to eat slowly is arranged through the partition with just a narrow opening at the bottom. You put the grain in the box on the outside of the partition and the horse gets it slowly. It saves grain and the horse takes more time to grind it.

KEEP FOWLS HEALTHY

Ground on Which House Stands Must Be Cleaned Often.

Advisable to Keep Walls of Building Off Ground—Exclude Drafts by Nailing Battens Over Joints—Place for Door.

With regard to the exterior and interior arrangements of poultry houses, the advantage of not having a wooden floor is that the hens keep healthier than if there was a fitted floor.

If a portable house and too large to move on to fresh ground as often as would be necessary to keep the ground clean, but since cleanliness is essential to success, the ground on which the house stands must be cleaned and newly littered frequently.

Some of the best materials to use as litter are moss litters, cinders and ashes, straw or hay.

Sawdust is not a good litter in such a place, whatever it may be on a dry floor, because it absorbs and retains much moisture from the ground.

It is advisable to keep the walls of the house off the ground by standing them on a sill made of the most durable wood, and in this way they are kept from early decay, and the wood will also hold longest by placing the boards upright and fixing them in this position to the framework.

Drafts may be excluded, as it is most necessary they should be, by nailing thin battens two inches wide over the joints between the boards on the outside walls.

The boards of the roof should, on the other hand, run lengthwise from end to end of the house and parallel with the ground, for though they may not hold so long in this position or if placed upright, they can be preserved by annual painting or tarring, and it is the only way of making a thoroughly rainproof roof, that will remain rainproof for years in all changes of weather.

Thin, rough and cheap boards will suffice for the inside sheeting if a layer of paper is put between the lining and the outer walls.

In this way drafts are effectually excluded.

The most convenient position of the door is in one of the gable ends, so that it may be almost the full height of the house. A window may be placed in one of the sides, and the nest boxes may be arranged on the outside of the end opposite the door, with openings to them from the house and a hinged lid, so that the attendant can take away the eggs without entering the house.

By this arrangement it is unnecessary to leave a passage in the house and the perches may be stretched entirely across it from one side to the other.

The frame is of studding 2x4 inches, weather-boarded, with worked barn boards, lined with same, with smooth side out, having building paper or tar paper tacked up to the studding under it. Roosts hang from ceiling on iron rods to within fourteen or sixteen inches from floor; a board set in grooves in the walk divides floor space under roosts to keep droppings from mixing with litter on balance of floor. Feed troughs are placed around walls. Ladders lead up from scratching floor to each roosting room. This roosting department is sealed up on undersides of rafters, which permits of a window in each gable above the square of the building, giving splendid ventilation. The wings are three feet high in front and seven feet where they join roost rooms. The space under floor of main building is a part of scratching floor with a lath partition extending through.

EFFECT OF CROSSING BREEDS

Great Changes in Shape of Progeny Often Made—How to Secure Barred Chickens.

Crossing breeds makes great changes more often than not in the shape and color of the progeny. The mother will give the shape and weight of her body to the cross and, according to the sex, the father changes the feather coloring.

For instance, Barred Rock males crossed with pure-bred Black Langshan hens will give you all barred chickens, but reverse the cross, breeding a Black Langshan male to Barred Rock hens, and only the cockerels will be barred.

Mulch for Bush Fruits.

Put a thick layer of straw or other litter about blackberries and raspberries to have the moisture, and if dry weather comes you will get fruit whether the other fellow does or not.

The Beloved Art of Soothing

There are many types of femininity, but perhaps the rarest and most appreciated is the girl who soothes. There are so many vivacious girls, types which excite one to mirth or to lively interest, but there is only one girl in a hundred who soothes. She is like the oasis in the desert, restful, refreshing, welcome to one and all. The woman with the keen wit, she of the bubbling mirth, the girl with the languorous manner, all are of interest at times and under certain conditions, but the girl who soothes never fails to attract wherever she may be.

It is she who smoothes down your ruffled feelings when circumstances seem to have conspired against your peace of mind. If your dressmaker has failed to deliver your new frock at the promised time or if your maid has just broken your favorite bit of china, you take your troubles to the girl who soothes and come away feeling much better for her cheering words.

To learn this most difficult branch of social diplomacy—namely, the gentle art of soothing—you must have, first of all, a goodly share of intuition. There are times when your ruffled friend may want you to ignore her very apparent perturbation. At other times she may be just waiting for you to speak a word of sympathy or perhaps to touch upon the upsetting subject in order to burst out with her whole tale of woe. Your intuition will have to tell you.

One of the first things for you to learn in the gentle art of soothing is never to disturb your friend's poses. There is nothing quite so ruffling as to have one's pose detected. If a friend is a chronic invalid (with nothing really the matter), sympathize with her imagined aches and pains just as if they were real.

If a friend has her mind all made up to be a martyr let her be one and don't suggest possible ways out of her martyrdom. She will rant on for hours on the subject of all she has to undergo, and it would be fatally tactless to disturb her in this pose. If she imagines her husband untrue to her just because he has had to consult a woman client on a matter of business, condole with her by all means, whether you think her foolish or not.

You must never suggest by any chance that your confidant was in the wrong in a quarrel. If she tells you at length how Bobby and she no longer speak to each other because he is so ridiculously jealous, smooth her down in your most tactful way. Suggest that Bobby would not be so jealous if he did not care for her; never intimate in the faintest way that she would give any one ample cause for jealousy.

If you want to be one of those rare creatures, a girl who soothes, never tell a tired woman shopper that she could have obtained much better bargains at another store. If a friend wears an overelaborate gown, make no comment on it, but tell her that you have never seen her hair look so well. It is strange how far an adroit compliment will go at times toward smoothing a ruffled mind.

There are women, however, who cannot be helped by such methods at all. You must study your friends and their characters in order to learn the art of soothing thoroughly. There is no single way, but rather myriad of ways of calming down a ruffled mind. In fact, each woman seems to need a different treatment.

It is well worth studying the art, however, for the girl who soothes is beloved by all who know her.

ATTRACTIVE FOR GUESTS.

Very few young housekeepers have been spared the acute misery of trying to equip the guest room for the unexpected guest at the last minute.

The best sheets were probably at the laundry, the supply of Turkish towels had suddenly reduced itself to rock bottom, and most tragic of all there was not a single presentable nightgown to offer the guest, who had left her own at home.

Only a very few of these humiliating experiences are needed to make the hostess appreciate the advantage of a guest chest.

The chest may be a shirt waist box, a carved oak or cedar chest or whatever fits into the general scheme of the guest room.

In it should be stowed a nightgown, kimono or bathrobe, a dressing jacket, an extra pair of blankets, an extra coverlet, a hot water bag, several large and small sized towels, washcloths, individual cakes of soap, absorbent cotton, court plaster and medical helps.

It is a gracious touch to add other things for the comfort of the guest, articles she might hesitate to ask for, such as a work basket equipped with black and white thread, a darning ball, needles and pins, scissors, card of hooks and eyes, a roll of linen tape, buttons and numerous other things that suggest themselves.

A list should be kept of all articles in the chest, and as soon as any part of the supply is exhausted it should be replaced immediately.

Guess Work Is DANGEROUS In Fitting Glasses

The old way of fitting glasses by guessing at the kind needed was often more harmful than going without them. NO GUESS WORK NOW. I submit the test, the correction, and the cost to you before you are asked to pay a single cent. You take no risk nor incur any obligation by coming to me about your eyes.
